VERDICT OF THE JURY

The Lengthy Investigation Into the Anacenda Mine Accident.

THE COMPANY NOT AT FAULT

Testimony Offered by Witnesses Yesterday Every Precaution Exercised to Protect the Lives of the Miners.

BUTTE, May 21.-The mining inques was continued again this morning. The jury first visited the hospital and secured the evidence of Robert Works and P. J. Murphy, the two men who were unable to before. The physicians in charge stated that any cross questioning would tend to excite the men and might prove injurious, and for this reason the examinations were necessarily brief.

Robert Works was first sworn and testi-fied as follows: "I am employed in the Anaconda mine and had about two years' experience. On Saturday morning we finished filling up the third floor with Innished filling up the third floor with waste and then went to put in a set of timbers in the west end of the stope in the langing wall. We were blocking the tumbers at the time the cave came. My partner called to me to look out and I jumped backwards, thinking probably that it was a piece of rock coming. Then the timbers came down on our heads before we could run a step."

step."
"Did the cave give any warning whatever?" "None at all—not a second."
"Did the timbers there look as safe as on previous days:" "Yes; I thought I was just as safe there as I would be on top."

"Were the sets on the third floor filled up with waste." "Yes, sir; as full as they could be on account of men working there."

-P. J. Murphy was exceedingly weak and nervous and his examination was short. He testified that he was working on the fourth floor of the 800 level on May on the fourth floor of the 80 level on May 14th, and that he went back into the drift about 15 minutes after the blast. The first indication he had of a cave was the rock falling from the roof. He jumped back and put his left arm around a post while he heard the crash and felt his arm hurt. In a few minutes John Sullivan got a light and he followed him down to the sill floor. He was questioned as sill floor. He was questioned as

The jury then returned to Judge Muldoon's oflice.

John J. Davis, one of the men who was at first reported as dead, was the first witness examined. He testified as follows:
"I am a miner and working in the Anaconda mine. I was working day shift on May 14. I have had about 11 years' experience under ground. On Saturday I "Did you notice the timbers when you went to work Saturday?" "I hung up my coat that morning II posts west of the cave and did not notice any weight there."

"Did you notice any difference in the timbers that day from any other that you worked there?" "I did not."
"What time did you blast in the forenoon?" "We were getting ready to blast when the cave came."

I went in to the cave then and heard the men groaning. I tried to find a man-way to get up there. I didn't think the cave was so big. I couldn't find any place to get up. I then tried to get Clark out whose leg was sticking through the floor. He was alive then and was groaning. Then I went down onto the other floor and ran in and gave one of the shovelers that was blown back a light. I went in to the cave then and heard the men groaning. I tried to find a man-way to get up there.

was alive then and was groating. Then I went down onto the level and called for help. We went back up again and saw blood running down by the man way where we went up. I went out to the shaft and went back up to the cave with Jack O'Neill and I and some more men worked there getting them out. The body of Smith was got out and after that we got Clark's body out and I helped carry it to the man way."

"Had you ever been on the third, fo urth or fifth floors before the cave?" "I was on the fourth and lifth on the day before the accident."

"Did you notice the timbers?" "I noticed that they were doubling up."

"Did you notice whether or not they were straight?" "They all looked in good condition."

"Did you consider that ground safe?"
"I considered it as safe as the ground where I was working, or any other place

John D. Sullivan, who also had a mirae-John D. Sullivan, who also had a mirac-ulous escape, was next examined and gave the following testimony: "I am a miner and work in the Anaconda mine. I have had about three years' experience. I was working on the fourth floor of the east 800-foot level on Saturday, May 14. I was tumbering on the fourth floor, and my part-ner and I were putting up a set of timbers when the cave came. The timbers looked all right then and we never noticed any-thing wrong until the lights went out and droye me up against the wall. My partner drove me up against the wall. My partner and two more men were about two sets further back. I was close to the breast for about 10 minutes. I heard the other men calling for some one to take the load off of them, and when things got quiet I asked if there was anybody alive. A man who I think was Murphy said that he was alive, but his hand was hurt. He said that he saw a light down on the third floor. I went down there and got a light, and came back and saw a man's legs down between the timbers. I went down to the sill floor then and went out to the station, and Mike Connors, the shift boss, told me I could go on top, and I did so and went home."

"Did you have any notice whatever of this cave?" "None whatever."

"Did you consider that ground safe to work in?" "Yes, sir."

"Did the management use all necessary calling for some one to take the load of work in "" "Yes, sir."

"Did the management use all necessary caution for the safety of the men who were working there?" "Yes, sir," "Were you on the third, fourth and fifth floors during that day?" "Did you notice any leaning or crooked timbers on that day?" "No, sir, they were all straight."

The Brunswick saloon, No. 19 East Broadway, has been reopened under the management of George O'Reilly, who made the Monte Cristo such a popular resort in the past. Bruce Briar, formerly in the Silver Bow club, will preside during the day and the genial George, accompanied by his dogs, will look after things during the night. The Brunswick has been newly papered and refurnished throughout, and with a full supply of fine liquors and choice cigars, George may well expect to do a big business.

with waste, while in the other mines they are not. He considered that the management had taken every precaution for the safety of the men.

After hearing this evidence, Corener Muldoon summed up the evidence and gave the case to the jury.

REACHED A VERDICT.

Decision of the Coroner's Jury-The Anaconds Company Not at Fault, After a deliberation lasting about two hours and a half the jury returned the fol-

After a deliberation lasting about two hours and a half the jury returned the following verdict:

An inquest holden at Butte, in the county of Silver Bow, from May 14th inclusive to May 21st, be fore Hugh J. Moldoon, J. P., acting coroner of said county, upon the bodies of Wm. Hyland, Quinn Leary, Jolan Smith, Seward Stewart, John Nordstrom, T. C. Murphy and William Clark, there lying dead, by the jurors whose names are bereamto subscribed, the said jurers upon their oaths do say that they came to their death by a cave in the Anaconda mine on the 14th day of May, 1822. The magnifude of the accident is such that the jury deemed it necessary to make a searching and patient examination into the probable cause of the accident in order if possible to discover any responsibility that might exist either in the management of the mine or as to the neglect of subordinates. The jury has personally examined the premises of the accident, and comparative examination satisfies the jury that the timbering is as perfect as can be devised, and no defect was ascertained in this feature of the mine.

Man/ wilnesses were examined and in addition a committee of the Miners' union who made an examination after the accident. In no instance was any evidence desinced showing lack of care on the part of the management. The accident, as the testimony of all the winnesses and those who examined the cave tends to show that the management of the mine had taken all possible precaution for the safety of the employee, and that the accident was wholy unavoidable. The igny also states that the management of the company is exonerated from any blame for the accident and the consequent loss of life. The jury also states that the management of the company afferded all the aid possible in this examination. The jury is also indebted to Coroner Muldoon for his courtesy and painstaking efforts to expedite and facilitate the work of the jury. In testimony whereof, the said jurors have hereund set their hands on the day and year aforesaid.

The length of ti

The length of time which it took the jury to arrive at a verdict may lead to the belief that there were some differences of orinion, but this is not the case. Several of the jurors stated this evening that they were unanimous from the start in regard to exonerating the management of the mine and the employes from any blame who to several and the complexes the several seve mine and the employes from any blame whatever. Only three speeches were made and they were all in hearty accord with the verdiet rendered. The unusual length of time was taken up in reviewing the evidence and settling all questions beyond any possible dispute or doubt. It was desired to cover all the points thoroughly, so that there might be no future discussion over the matter. The evidence was entirely in favor of the mine.

The investigation commenced last Tues-

The investigation commenced last Tuesday and has been going on steadily eversince. Every point was examined into and the jury made strenuous efforts to get at the bottom of all the facts in the case, at the bottom of all the facts in the case, in which work the management of the mine rendered prompt assistance. The investigation has been a most rigid and thorough one, and the outcome cannot fail to give general satisfaction. A good many people grumbled about so much time being taken up and there is some talk about the county commissioners cutting down the fees on the ground of unnecessariant. down the fees on the ground of unneces-sary expense, but there is no doubt that it was better to have the investigation con-ducted at length and thoroughly than to have the matter disposed of in a few hours or in slipshod fashion. Forty-nine wit-nesses were examined during the inquest.

At the Mine.

The situation at the mine is unchanged. The ground near the cave is still settling a little and as it is considered unsafe to work in itefforts to get the remaining addies out will not be resumed before Monday at the earliest, and not then unless the ground has become safe enough to work ground has become safe enough to work in without great danger. The signs of a cave on the 600 are still partly apparent and the ground there is settling to an al-most imperceptible degree. No men are at work on that level and only a few are working above the 800. All the men who were working in the upper levels have nearly all been transferred to the nine and ten hundred, and the rest have taken a short lay off.

BASE BALL MATTERS,

News of Butte's Victory Causes Much Rejoicing BUTTE, May 21.—The news of the Butte team's victory at Missoula this afternoon was received with delight by the crowd of interested base ball enthusiasts who surrounded the STANDARD's bulletin board this evening. There was scarcely any surprise manifested however as it was considered a foregone conclusion that "our boys" would win, although it was hardly thought they would give the Missoulans such another terrible drubbing. The local base ball people are away up on the "Beuttes" to-night and bets are freely offered that they will capture the pennant with no takers. Missoula does not appear to be in it with Butte to any noticeable extent just now, but the people there will no doubt soon rally to the support of their club and strengthen it a few points. The real test of the stuff in the Butte club will be made on next Saturday and Sunday, when the strong Philipsburg team will make its first appearance on the home grounds. These will be games worth seeing and there will no doubt be big crowds to witness them. uttes" to-night and bets are freely offered

The Theory of Special Sales-Our Entire Stock of Dress Goods at a Great Sacrifico -- Read the Particulars.

There is no reason why one success should not follow another. We are flushed with victory. Our silk sale last week was the greatest success of its kind ever known in Butte. We sold thousands of yards of silks and we sold them at prices which had never before been heard tell of in Butte. Some of them we sold at one-third price, some we sold at cost and we have initators, some we sold at cost and profit. We believe that the sale averaged a small profit and on account of the large sales this small profit amounted to more in the aggregate than a picayune business as to volume at a great big, old-fashioned Montana profit.

Beginning on to-morrow morning, we will offer our entire stock of dress goods on the same sort of a layout-some at a good deal less than cost, some at cost and some at a small profit, depending upon a large volume of business at a small average profit to make the venture a success.

To move large quantities To move large quantities of goods through these special sales is a great aid to our other cheap-selling methods. It is an aid to us and hence to you. The theory of mutual help is too plain to need extended elucidation. This will be the great Dress Goods Sale of the Season.

We have the goods-more of them and a greater variety than you can find anywhere else in Montana, and often two dress patterns for the price of one. There is no mistake about that, for we know what we are talking about, and if there is any exaggeration in the statement you will soon find it out. There isn't a women in Butte who can't tell whether a dress pattern is conspicuously cheap or not. We want the good judges of dress goods values to attend this sale. Here are some of the reductions: Cashmeres reduced from 25c to 121/2c; from 40 to 221/2; 36-inch from 35 to 23; plaids from 35 to 24: 38-inch woolen dress goods reduced from 75c to 39c in all of the newest patterns. Wool cashmeres reduced from 50c to 28c, Chevron stripes and plaids, a new fabric, reduced from $1.00 to 69c, and so wide that seven yards will make a dress. Elegant Henriettas, in all shades, reduced to 70 cents. You will pay $1.25 elsewhere for no better; our regular $1.25 quality for 89 cents. sliders patterns, no two alike, for $9.95; $12.50 for $8.25, and similar reductions throughout the entire stock. Now is the time to buy a dress at a nominal price. These prices are good for this week only. Don't b'ame us if you fail to read this advertisement. If you want to save several dollars in the purchase of dress goods, this is your opportunity. You know this is your opportunity. You know whether you do or not. The money you save you can use in some other way. Be prudent, and plenty will be the reward. Come in the mornings if you can.
